AIRMEN HELP WIPE OUT OLD WAR HATREDS

Do Much to Advance Friendly Feeling Between United States and Germany

WORLD LAUDS AMERICA Daring Flights Awaken Enthusiasm for Flag in Foreign Countries

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1927, By Post Pub. Co.
Washington — Messages exchanged between President von Hindenburg of Germany and President Coolidge over the success of the Chamberlin-Levine flight emphasize the new turn which aviation has given to international friendship.

Ten years ago the fever of war hate was intense and prophets were saying it would take generations to wipe it out. Now the German people, complimented by the journey of the American fliers, are endeavoring to out-do the French reception to Lindbergh.

To the extent that the Chamberlin-Levine incident has awakened more enthusiasm for the American flag and helps focus attention on the disappearance of time and distance in bringing people of the two countries closer together there will no doubt be important after-effects of the achievement of the two fliers.

FAVORABLE PUBLIC OPINION
Undoubtedly a daring stunt is a subject for acclaim by few people, but in the two successful flights across the Atlantic, governments have taken cognizance of the event and admiration is being heaped by the outside world on the skill and courage of Americans. The laudatory editorials in the newspapers of all countries are considered here a reflection of a favorable public opinion toward America.

It is not uncommon now in official quarters to refer to the aviators as special ambassadors of good feeling. Lindbergh will always have a warm place in the hearts of diplomats for having stirred the emotions of the French people in friendliness once more toward America. The remark of a British newspaper that these pioneer aviators are citizens of the world and as such are being welcomed everywhere is accepted here as an indication of how easily a spirit of international good will can be invoked by aviation.

CALIFORNIA BACKS HONOLULU FLIGHTS

Public Subscription Started to Raise $50,000 for Prizes to Airmen

San Francisco (AP)—With probably thirty fliers unofficially entered in the proposed San Francisco-Honolulu flight, and Los Angeles interests preparing for a flight to the Hawaiian islands, to precede the hop-off here, the thoughts of Californians were turning skyward Wednesday. A public subscription has been started here in an attempt to raise $50,000 for prizes for the fliers.

PROMINENT ENGINEER DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Chicago (AP)—Frank D. Pearne, 52, head of the radio and engineering departments of Lane Technical high school and the inventor of several electrical devices now in wide use, died suddenly Tuesday night following a protracted illness.

VON HINDENBURG RECEIVES FLIERS

COASTGUARD EMPLOYEE IS HELD FOR SHOOTING

Painesville, O. (AP)—John A. Sadowski, a surfman in the coastguard service, who terrorized the Lake Huron at Fairport Tuesday by firing several hundred shots indiscriminately from a rum chaser lying at anchor, was held a prisoner Wednesday for government authorities in Lake-coast jail.

Fishermen went busily about their tasks in the harbor Tuesday. Many women and children were out walking in the warm afternoon sun. Suddenly Sadowski climbed aboard the rum chaser and procured three guns from a locker. He began firing at the pier. Almost before the echo of the shots died away the crowd of 200 persons was under cover. No one was injured. Sadowski apparently was under the influence of liquor, the county authorities said.

'Lindy' Turns Thumbs Down On Trust Fund

Washington (AP)—A proposal of several friends of Charles A. Lindbergh to create a trust fund, the income from which would be placed at the disposal of the aviator and his mother during their lives, has been rejected by Lindbergh.

This was disclosed Wednesday at the war department, where it was said Secretary Davis had been requested to serve as head of a committee to receive popular subscriptions to make up the fund.

The secretary conferred with Harry Knight, representing the St. Louis sponsors of Lindbergh's flight, who is understood to have expressed doubt that Lindbergh would accept the gift. The offer then was cabled to the aviator in London, and he replied expressing his appreciation, but declining the offer.

U. S. S. Memphis by Wireless to the Associated Press—Journeying homeward from his triumphal welcome in Paris, Brussels and London, Colonel Lindbergh has passed the half-way mark. The cruiser was less than 1,500 miles off the Virginia Capes Wednesday, making steady progress at 22½ knots.

Knowing full well the round of greetings he will have to undergo after he steps ashore on his native soil, the flier is resting as much as possible.

The photographers had their tunings with him Tuesday—the first day of brilliant sunshine since the warship steamed out of Cherbourg last Saturday. "Let's have it over with," he said, so four photographers, packing their cameras, climbed with him to the bridge. They photographed looking over the sea, with his blonde hair waving picturesquely in the wind, took him at the guns, and sitting on one of the two seaplanes on deck ready for action.

Later they snapped him with the ship's officers and with Tassie, the Kangaroo mascot, who did not like being held up on his hind legs, even by a hero.

Tuesday night Colonel Lindbergh was the dinner guest of Captain Lackey along with the ship's departmental heads. Several vessels have been sighted by the Memphis. The Bremen, eastward bound, came out of her course to salute the distinguished passenger with the blast of the Red man's whistle, and then the captain radioed his good wishes to Lindbergh.

The American trans-Atlantic flier had a round with young men of about his own age Wednesday morning when he drew from a hat a slip of paper designating which table he would sit at lunch Thursday when he will dine with the ship's crew. Table No. 19 of the engineers, was the lucky one.

HUBER DEFENDS BILL
Lieutenant Governor Huber, who was the author of the bill several sessions ago when a member of the upper house, left his chair as president of the senate and vigorously upheld the initiative and referendum as the "instrument which would give the people a chance to rule, and also permit them to hold a check over the legislature."

He pleaded with the members to pass the resolution, "as their ex-governor, Robert M. La Follette, would have wished them to."

Considerable political maneuvering and compromises were met to bring the bill to a vote after a "test" vote relative to laying the bill over showed the opponents of the measure apparently held the majority of the ballots. Senator Markham introduced an amendment and then withdrew it. At this action Senator Southoff, a friend of the measure, charged him with insincerity.

Senator Markham jumped to his feet, "what right has the senator to charge me with insincerity?" he shouted.

"I take that right," Senator Southoff returned, "and ask no one for the privilege."

When the Horicon Senator re-introduced his amendment "to prove his sincerity," Senator Polkowski charged him with horseplay.

A motion to recess until Wednesday night was then passed.

INSANE MAN BATTLES MILWAUKEE POLICEMEN

Milwaukee (AP)—An insane man, barricaded himself in his small cottage shortly before midnight Tuesday, staged a two hour battle with eight police officers before he was overpowered.

The man, Frank Yaklich, 55, a foundry worker, fired six shots at the officers. Detective Sergeant Louis Dieken hurled three tear gas bombs through the window, but even this failed to check the crazed man's plans as he wrapped an improvised mask across his face and continued to shoot. At least 30 shots were exchanged. Yaklich was finally overpowered after being shot in the right thigh by a motorcycle officer. Yaklich was taken to emergency hospital where he was treated for the wound in his thigh.

HOPES FLIGHT WILL PROMOTE WORLD AMITY

Cheers Sound Through Berlin as Chamberlin and Levine Show Themselves

Berlin (AP)—Germany's veteran president, Field Marshal von Hindenburg, received Chamberlin and Levine at the executive mansion Wednesday and congratulated them on their achievement in spanning the Atlantic by air from New York to Germany.

The interview, which was of a cordial nature, lasted 15 minutes. President von Hindenburg handed each of the visitors a fine framed autographed portrait of himself. After questioning the Americans as to the details of their flight, he expressed the hope that it would contribute to bringing the American and German peoples in closer communion.

Chamberlin and Levine were accompanied to the presidential residence by the American Ambassador Jacob Gould Schurman. A crowd massed outside in the Wilhelmstrasse gave them a rousing volley of cheers upon their entrance and exit while a pair of statue-like sentries in field grey and steel helmets, standing on either side of the door saluted and clicked heels in the most approved Prussian style.

FLIES NEW U. S. FLAG
Ambassador Schurman was in top hat and ceremonial morning garb, but the aviators were in the only clothes they brought with them—those they wore on their great flight. The embassy Wednesday displayed a new American flag in honor of its guest—a banner of such ample proportions as to dominate the entire Wilhelmstrasse.

The Stars and Stripes were displayed all about the business section of Berlin, often in clusters with the German national colors and the Prussian state flag.

Crowds remained in front of the embassy braving occasional severe showers to get a look at the aviators, every appearance of whom evoked shouts which could be heard blocks away.

STATE PER CAPITA COST REACHES $9.88

Wisconsin Cost Is 88 Cents Above Average for Country

Washington, D. C.—Per capita cost of running the general departments of the Wisconsin state government for the fiscal year 1926 was 88 cents more than the average for the forty-eight states, figures given out by the department of commerce disclosed.

It required $28,254,072 or $9.88 per capita to run the general departments of Wisconsin, and $1,040,234,422, or $8.98 per capita to run the general departments of the forty-eight states.

Total cost of Wisconsin state government was $27,557,503, and of the forty-eight states, $1,014,537,534. Wisconsin spent $10,675,215 for highways, and the forty-eight states spent approximately $450,000,000 for this purpose.

Wisconsin had revenues of $40,315,432, and the forty-eight states had total revenues of $1,537,463,941. Wisconsin had indebtedness of $1,762,700, or $9.62 per capita, and the forty-eight states had indebtedness of $1,227,514,422, or $11.46 per capita.

The assessed valuation of property in Wisconsin was $216,994,450, and the assessed valuation of property of the forty-eight states amounted to $142,091,520,725.

TWO RIFLE SHOTS FIRED THROUGH WINDOW OF CAR
Eau Claire (AP)—Two shots from a small caliber rifle, evidently a .22, were fired at one of the Pullman cars of the Good Will special train of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce when the train was between Chippewa Falls and this city, late Tuesday.

E. F. Ruetter, passenger agent of the Northwestern road, who is a member of the Good Will party, expressed the opinion that irresponsible youths were the marksmen.

POLICEMAN'S AUTO KILLS SON OF HIS SUPERIOR OFFICER

Chicago (AP)—Policeman Frank Lynch was driving to the bier of his sister Tuesday night when suddenly there scooted into the path of his automobile a small boy on a kiddie car. There was screeching of brakes and a piercing scream, and the automobile slid to a stop a few feet from the child's motionless form as the kiddie car rolled merrily to the curb.

The patrolman took the boy to a hospital and as he stood waiting word of the child's condition he looked up and saw his superior officer, Sergeant Ralph Bunde.

"My boy," said Sergeant Bunde, Policeman Lynch's car had struck Ralph Bunde, Jr., aged 9. His arms about Bunde's shoulder the policeman pleaded for forgiveness. Two hours later as the two men sat, grief-stricken together, the boy died.

EARL CARROLL NOW PRISONER NO. 24,909 IN U. S. PENITENTIARY

New York Theatrical Producer Begins Year's Sentence for Perjury

Atlanta, Ga. (AP)—Earl Carroll, the aftermath of whose celebrated "bath tub" party was a jail sentence for the New York theatrical producer, arrived here early Wednesday morning to begin serving a term of a year and a day in the federal penitentiary for perjury.

Carroll was brought to Atlanta by train from Greenville, S. C., where he had received medical attention at a hospital following a collapse aboard train enroute to the prison here from New York city—perjury. Met at the train by a private ambulance, Carroll was hurried to the prison passing with its gates at 5:51 in the morning.

The formalities customarily attendant on the arrival of a prisoner were waived in Carroll's case and he was taken immediately to the prison hospital. Mrs. Carroll believed he was being taken there to die, she said. Carroll became prisoner 24,909.

"The medical information I have is that there is nothing about his condition that in any way requires his staying out of prison," Attorney General Sargent announced Tuesday.

DENIES HIM PARDON

On this ground Sargent simultaneously ordered Carroll sent on to Atlanta and refused his application for an immediate pardon. There was nothing to warrant a favorable recommendation.

President Coolidge on the part of the attorney general said: "I have delayed longer than justice required," Sargent added bluntly, "I wanted to make as sure as I could of the facts, from medical advice, I have felt that the case, on its face, had something unusual about it. But there was nothing I could do but be considerate."

Whatever grounds there may have been for the persistent circumstantial reports which came from private physicians at Greenville and from Carroll's relatives and friends that the producer faced a complete collapse and perhaps death if forced to go to prison, were left by Sargent enveloped in mystery.

When it was pointed out that private physicians had emphasized again and again that Carroll's condition was grave, the attorney general rejoined merely that "they never said what was the matter with him."

U. S. WAR OFFICE HONORS 15 MILITARY ACADEMIES

Washington, D. C.—Fifteen military academies, maintaining exceptionally efficient reserve officer training corps units, were designated Tuesday by the war department as honor schools for the year.

The schools were selected from institutions among the essentially military schools.

FIREWORKS PLANT BURNS; CITIZENS WATCH 'DISPLAY'

Chicago (AP)—Dwellers in five west side suburbs Tuesday night sat on their porches stood in the streets and even perched on house tops to view a $50,000 pyrotechnical display as fire destroyed the Eagle Fireworks company plant at River Grove, and a complete stock of Independence day fireworks. Roman candles shot their vari-colored stars in every direction while skyrocket arches their way into the night in the accompaniment of a fire cracker rattle-tat-tat which was heard for miles and which continued half an hour. The factory was destroyed. Firemen advanced the opinion that the fire was of incendiary origin.

BLAME POLAND FOR MURDER OF RUSS OFFICIAL

Warsaw Expresses Condolences and Promises to Punish Guilty Persons

Moscow (AP)—The Polish minister at Moscow, M. Patek, has called on Maxim Litvinoff, acting foreign commissar, and expressed the profound condolences of the Polish government for the murder in Warsaw Tuesday of M. Volkoff, soviet minister to Poland. He voiced condemnation of "this criminal act."

M. Patek accused the foreign commissar that vigorous police investigation would be carried out and the guilty persons punished to the utmost severity of the law.

At the same time M. Litvinoff handed the minister a note for presentation to his government protesting against the assassination and saying that the Polish government could not repudiate responsibility for the outrage.

"Poland," the note declares, "will be held responsible for any assassination. The government of the soviet union considers this an unprecedented criminal act, bound up with a whole series of acts aimed at destroying diplomatic representation of the soviet union abroad and creating a direct menace at peace."

DID NOT ACT PROMPTLY
The note accused the Polish government of not having taken necessary measures against criminal activities in Polish territory of Russian counter-revolutionary terrorist organizations. Government circles, as quoted by Tass, the official soviet news agency, deny that M. Volkoff, the murdered minister was in any way responsible for the death warrants of the Romanoff family as has been stated in some quarters.

At the time of the execution of the czar, M. Volkoff was the soviet food commissar in the Ural district, says Tass.

Russian authorities, who have declared a fortnight's mourning for M. Volkoff by all soviet representatives at home and abroad, regard the assassination as having a clearly defined connection with the recent anti-soviet activities of Great Britain. "They make no secret of their conviction that it is part of a definite campaign carried on by capitalist countries against the soviet union."

WARSAW IS ANXIOUS

Warsaw, Poland (AP)—Although the assassination of M. Volkoff, soviet minister to Poland, was committed by a Russian refugee who is not a Polish citizen, it was causing much anxiety in Poland Wednesday.

It was feared that the soviet Russia might demand the extradition of the 19-year-old assassin, Boris Kovceda to which Poland could not possibly agree without a loss of prestige and violation of the principle of not surrendering political offenders. Members of the Russian colony in Warsaw repudiate connection with Wovceda and fear deplorable consequences.

A. P. Rosengolz, former soviet charge d'affaires at London, who was with M. Volkoff when he was shot and killed, will accompany the body to Moscow Thursday.

BRINGS $150,000 SUIT AGAINST WIFE'S PARENTS

New York (AP)—Society was stirred Wednesday by an alienation case in which the defense is that a debutante was swept off her feet by an impecunious man. Dr. Fenton Benedict Turk and his wife Mrs. Avis Payne Turk, are being sued by their son-in-law, Alden S. Condict, for $150,000.

Condict charges that before her parents' "subtle influence" caused his wife to leave him March 10, he and she lived happily together. Counsel for Dr. and Mrs. Turk denied the charges and characterized the suit as "the move of an impecunious man to gain something from a wealthy father-in-law."

Jack Pickford Sails For Paris To Obtain Divorce

New York (AP)—After knocking down a reporter with a rolled up newspaper, Jack Pickford, motion picture actor, sailed on the Berengaria Wednesday for Paris and a divorce from Marilyn Miller, stage actress. Miss Miller who preceded her husband to New York from Hollywood, remained in the city. She has bought a "divorce tresscoat" here.

"New York clothes are the best in the world," she said. Instead of buying clothes in Paris she is taking to Paris new toys bought in New York.

Whether Jack and Marilyn met or communicated before he left was not disclosed. He said she would sail Saturday.

"Marilyn and I," he added, "are perfectly friendly and there is no

YOUTH IS HELD BY MILWAUKEE POLICE FOR ROBBING BANK

Confesses Burglaries of Stores, Postoffice and Bancroft Bank Holdup

Milwaukee (AP)—Attempted robbery of the Bancroft State bank Tuesday and the burglary of two stores and the postoffice at Bancroft was cleared up Wednesday, Milwaukee police announced, with the confession of Harry Pratt, 19, arrested Tuesday night at state fair park.

Taken into custody on the tip of Mrs. Isaac Meddigh, where Pratt roomed, the youth, who is a son of a farmer near Dodgeville, confessed and said, to attempting the holdup of the Bancroft State bank early Tuesday.

The robber escaped empty-handed when frustrated by the time lock on the vault, set for 9 o'clock.

The robber was in the bank when surprised by Harry Manley, assistant cashier, at 6:30 in the morning. The robber covered Manley and demanded that he open the safe. Manley could not, on account of the time lock. The robber decided to stay until 9 o'clock, but later became frightened when Jesse L. Judd, cashier, came to the bank and ran for help. The man, who wore a Negro mask carried two guns, forced Manley to drive him to the country where his car was parked.

ADmits ROBBERIES

Police said that Pratt admitted the bank robbery and burglarizing the two stores and postoffice two weeks ago with two other men from Chicago. The burglaries excited the town and resulted in increased vigilance to protect other homes and business places.

A reputation for being a "hard guy" started him on his brief career in crime. Pratt told police. Since boyhood, he had that reputation he said, and when a car was stolen in Bancroft the finger of suspicion pointed to him. He was innocent, he said, but fled and after working in several places became a bootlegger in Chicago. He interested two Chicago men in the Bancroft robberies and they burglarized them one night.

REGISTRATION BILL PASSED BY ASSEMBLY

Overrides Governor's Veto, 64 to 24 — Measure Now Becomes Law

Madison (AP)—The state assembly Wednesday concurred with the senate in overriding Governor Zimmerman's veto of Senator Harry Seale's permanent registration bill. The vote was 64 to 24. The bill provides for the permanent registration of all voters in cities over 5,000 population. It now becomes a law.

The bill, previously passed in the senate, with only one dissenting vote and going through the assembly by an overwhelming majority, had Governor Zimmerman's veto because of an opinion from the attorney general's office, declaring it unconstitutional.

Coming back to the legislature, the senate passed it over the veto in view of a later opinion from Attorney General John W. Reynolds, holding the bill constitutional. The earlier opinion was explained as being prepared in a hurry, without due consideration of the bill's merits.

A message to the assembly from the governor accompanied the bill when it was up for passage Wednesday. The governor set out the causes for his veto and said it had been rejected "solely on the basis of the opinion from the attorney general."

The lower house also refused to reconsider the vote by which it recently voted non-concurrence with the senate in Senator Michigan's bill providing that all law school graduates take the state bar examinations. The vote was 44 to 32.

UTAH SENATOR SAYS CAL WILL SUMMON BODY

President Wants Congress to Get Running Start on Program, Smoot States

TO MEET BIG PROBLEMS
Deficiency Appropriation Bill, Tax Reduction, Elections to Come Up

Washington (AP)—Congress will be called in special session in October, Senator Smoot of Utah, declared Wednesday after a conference with President Coolidge.

Upon leaving the White House the Utah senator represented the president as being convinced of the wisdom of the session. The senator, who is a member of the senate finance committee which handles tax legislation, added that "there is no doubt about" the call being issued so that congress could get a running start on its legislative program.

Senator Smoot declared that the deficiency appropriation bill, which failed of action at the close of last session, tax reduction and settlement of election contests were problems that must be taken up at an early date along with flood control measures.

No time had been set, he added, but Oct. 1 or 15 are the most likely dates.

POSTOFFICE FEUD RESULT OF FLIGHT

U. S. Postal Department Investigates Cancelling of Airmail Stamps

Washington (AP)—The first New York to Germany load of air mail carried by the plane Columbia, may add fire to the feud between Charles A. Levine, passenger with Pilot Clarence Chamberlin on the flight, and the postal department.

An investigation by the department is under way into the cancelling of air mail stamps on 250 letters by Postmaster Sealy of Hempstead, L. I., for Levine and State Senator Charles C. Lockwood of New York. His counsel, Sealy, has been asked for a re-forecast on his action in the cancellation of the stamps.

The department has claimed that the cancellation was done away from his post-office and the letters delivered to persons not authorized to receive U. S. mail. The value of the stamps to dealers and collectors is estimated by the postal officials to be $1,000 each.

In the preparation of the air mail load for Germany, the department was informed that Senator Lockwood had asked Postmaster Sealy to cancel 125 letters and Sealy took his cancellation stamp to a Garden City hotel for this procedure. The postmaster then went to Roosevelt field nearby and cancelled 125 more letters for Levine. Sealy, according to the report, had been approached prior to the Columbia flight about the feasibility of air mail being sent on the trans-Atlantic plans and had been informed upon his inquiry by a postoffice inspector that it was possible. Colonel Lindbergh in his flight took no such mail.

YEGGS OBTAIN $1,200 AT WISCONSIN RAPIDS

Wisconsin Rapids (AP)—Yeggs who cracked four safes in this city some time Tuesday night got about $1,200 for their efforts, according to a check made Wednesday morning by police.

The places burglarized were the Kell, Kees, Brothers, Lunt, S. S. marines, which availed nothing, the Wisconsin Rapids Oil company also fruitless, the Standard Oil Central distributing office, where about $12 was obtained, and the Bessert Coal company office, where over $1,100 in cash and checks were taken.

It is believed that the same gang broke into the Gratiot station at Marshfield, 20 miles north of here Wednesday night. Although there was a considerable amount of money in the safe, the yeggs apparently were frightened away before they reached it.

300 WAIT VAINLY FOR BODY OF SLAIN MARINE

Chicago (AP)—More than 300 persons, including his foster parents, Mrs. and Mrs. G. W. Everett, a company of marines, a Reserve Officers Training corps unit and a field artillery gun company were disappointed after a two hour wait here Wednesday morning for the arrival of the body of Marvin A. Jackson, U. S. marine, killed in action near Baghdad, May 14.

The body was to reach here Wednesday morning and was to be escorted with military honors through downtown streets before being sent to Newburg for interment. Instead, it had been forwarded to Neeah Tuesday night.

LINDY'S FATHER HAD IRON NERVE SIMILAR TO SON

Was Pioneer in Politics Just as Offspring Is Pioneer in Aviation

BY RODNEY BUTCHER

Washington—The father of Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh was a pioneer in politics, as the son is a pioneer in the air.

The father failed to accomplish his aims and lapsed into comparative obscurity because he was opposed by the established conventions and interests of his fellowmen, while his son had only to contend with the elements.

Charles A. Lindbergh, the elder, who was a Republican congressman from the state of Minnesota from 1907 to 1917, was one of the first of the west-ern insurgents. He was elected as a progressive and maintained his pro-gressive principles until he died.

Some men now in Washington, but not a great many, recall both Lind-berghs. The son is recalled only as a quiet, unassuming lad in short pants. The father is recalled as a man of in-telligence and courage, of modesty and efficiency, of great industry and of most impeccable integrity, and, per-haps as important as anything, a man of ideals.

HAD IRON NERVE

His iron nerve was demonstrated when he underwent a major surgical operation without anesthetic and talked to a friend the while.

The first Charles A. Lindbergh be-came one of the first progressives in Congress when he defeated a conserva-tive incumbent in the Little Falls, or sixth Minnesota congressional district. Minnesota farmers at the time were bitter against the "money trust" and Lindbergh fought their battle in Washington. He fought the framers of the Federal Reserve Act and pushed a bill of his own which he held would be more to free the farmers from fi-nancial bondage and the bill was re-garded as radical and it lost out. The same fate met other measures dealing with banking and currency evils which Lindbergh introduced.

If Capt. Lindbergh is an emissary of peace, his father was no less an emissary of peace in the days before the United States entered the war. His constituents had not voted him out in favor of Harold Knutson, who is still in office, he undoubtedly would have voted against the declaration of war against Germany.

He made various speeches attack-ing money and armament interests for their alleged attempts to push the country into conflict and declared that America should keep out of this "wel-ter of blood, greed and militarism."

NOT GRANDSTANDER

But he never belittled. He never poked to the grandstand. He was calm and deliberate and not given to raving quarrels. His modesty has been mentioned, and proof elsewhere adduced that he gave his biography in the Congressional Directory only the words "Charles A. Lindbergh, Re-publican, of Little Falls."

But whatever virtues the elder Lindbergh had, they did not carry him to further political success or save him from the limbo of forgotten con-gressmen. After his congressional de-feat, Lindbergh was a candidate for the Republican nomination for gov-ernor in Minnesota—a state where Democrats don't count. He was the Non-Partisan League candidate. The war was on and the league was ac-cused of being disloyal. Some of their meetings required physical courage on the part of the speakers. Any-way, Lindbergh was barely defeated and the defeat was not ameliorated by the as-sertion of his friends that there was a bad odor to the ballot-counting. Death soon followed.

The elder Lindbergh was born in Sweden, but almost immediately af-terward his parents moved to a farm in Minnesota.

Eclipse Of Sun And Moon Is Scheduled For This Month, Scientists Promise

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

June will be an auspicious month for science and superstition.

The sun will be darkened, the moon will be obliterated and a great ball of fire, with an enormous tail, will ap-pear to threaten us in the sky.

Years ago special prayers went up, people shut themselves in and others even committed suicide under the awesome spell of any of these events. Now, we prepare differently for these great spectacles of scientific sig-nificance.

The darkening of the sun and ob-literation of the moon are eclipses of these great bodies in space, and the great ball of fire we know now as a comet.

The first event of the three to oc-cure this month is the eclipse of the moon. The earth will come between the sun and the moon, completely shutting off direct sunlight from our satellite. This will occur in the night of June 14-15, and will be seen all over the western hemisphere.

First the moon will cut through the outer shadow, or penumbra, of the earth and will slowly cross into the umbra or dark shadow, which it will reach at 1:43 a. m. eastern time, June 15.

For the next hour and a half the moon's eclipse will increase until it will be totally eclipsed at 3:13. This totality will last 21 minutes, after which the moon will move slowly out of the earth's shadow, only to be ob-structed from our view by the coming dawn.

COMET COMES NEXT

A week later the day becomes the longest of the year, with the begin-ning of summer, at 5:22 on the morn-ing of June 22.

Almost at the same time, if we happen to be up and point a weak-ened telescope toward the rising sun, we may be able to detect a stranger in the sky, coming toward us. It is the Pons-Winnecke comet, discovered in 1819 by a doorkeeper at the observatory at Marseilles and since then noticed every six years.

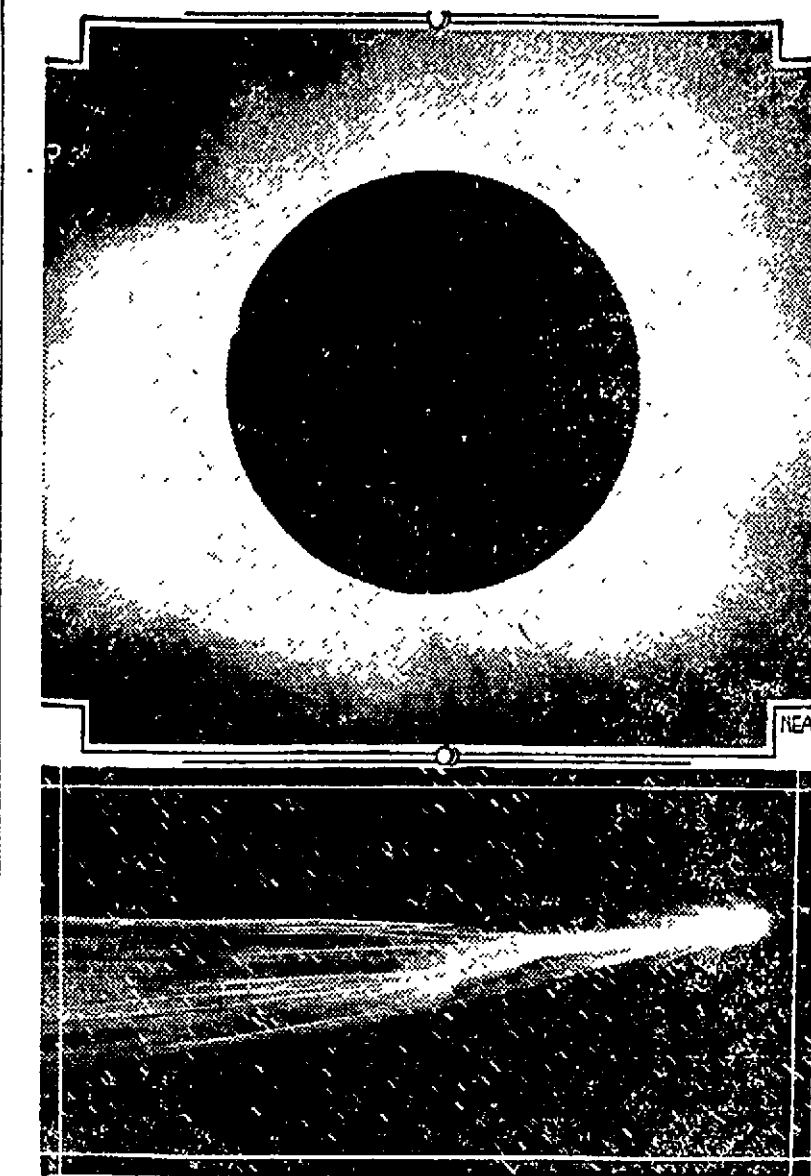

Comets are a strange lot of heav-ily bodies, each a collection of fiery meteors and dust particles grouped together by some sort of electric at-traction and whirling around the sun at an enormous speed and over a huge ellipse, or flat circle. Some of them have tails of thin gas, so thin that we on earth don't feel their presence, even when they might be passing right through them.

The Pons-Winnecke comet is ap-proaching us at the rate of 24 miles a second, faster than the earth is traveling, and on June 26 it will come nearest to us—a distance of 3,600,000 miles.

If we stay up until 3 in the morn-ing of June 26, eastern time, we may see the comet perhaps without aid of a telescope, but barely visible in the sky almost directly above us. It will be moving southeast almost as fast as the moon seems to move, but the presence of a waning moon at the same time may drown out the view of the comet.

SUN'S ECLIPSE JUNE 29

Of far more importance to science, although invisible in the United States, will be the sun's eclipse on the morn-ing of June 29. As the sun rises that morning, the moon will get between it and the earth so as to cast a cir-cular shadow 50 miles in diameter, moving northeast across the earth.

This shadow will start a little west of the Day of Discay, cross the At-lantic and pass over the populous sec-tion of Lancashire in England.

It will proceed along the length of Norway, the north of Sweden and Lapland and over the desolate region of the Arctic ocean north of the Siberian coast. It will go on over the eastern end of Siberia and leave the earth at sunset at the tip of Alaska.

Scientists have been preparing for this event for a whole year. Some American scientists are going to points in Norway to set up instruments by which they may study the sun's cor-ona, the great prominences of fire that can be seen favorably only when the moon covers the disk of the sun. They want to know what materials form it and exactly how.

For this long preparation the sci-entists will have no longer than 50 seconds to study this phenomenon. That's the longest the eclipse will last in totality. In England, where British scientists will study the eclipse, it will last only 23 seconds.

But enough material, it is hoped, will be gained to reward the scientists for their long preparations.

Hoping that it's a clear day!

COMPLETE CITY PLAN STUDIES OF 10 PLACES

Madison—(P)—City plan studies of 10 Wisconsin and other "home towns" have been con-ducted by members of the class in city planning at the Uni-versity of Wisconsin. Each student selected a vital problem for future development of his home city and af-ter making a study during the spring recess, prepared a report on improve-ment which would provide for present needs and future growth.

Civic improvement plans for Green Bay, Hammond, Ind., Lancaster, Chi-cago, Madison, Milwaukee, Beloit, Cambridge, Wis., and Fond du Lac have been submitted, Green Bay being twice planned for and Madison being several times the subject of the stu-dents' analysis.

MARKETS HERE TO SELL MEAT GRADED BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Federal Government Establishes System of Marking Choice Meats

Several Appleton meat markets will soon sell prime and choice cuts of beef which would have been graded and stamped by the United States department of agriculture under a new system of supervision which is now being instituted. Only high grade cattle are being marked and the stamped meats probably will be a little higher in price than ordinary cuts, one dealer said.

While the government is supervising grading and stamping beef only when asked to do so, consumers are assured that meat stamped as prime or choice will be of high quality and they can make certain that they are getting government grade by insisting that they be shown the U. S. stamp on the cut sold them.

Since meat grading is only in an experimental stage, the law does not require the meat dealers to handle government graded, stamped beef. The dealer may, however, place his order for such material with his packer and obtain it. Dealers who advertise or sell beef cuts as government graded, unless the meat is actually stamped as such, will be liable to a heavy penalty. The government declares, however, that in grading meats it does not necessarily follow the meat of a dealer who does not handle U. S. stamped carcasses in inferior to the certified kind.

The government's idea at this time is merely to determine whether or not consumers want to know the grades and if they appreciate the difference in quality between what is high grade and what is not so high. Quality, it is pointed out, should determine the price of any commodity, and it is believed that the consumer will welcome an opportunity to determine by government stamp on the meat that he is actually receiving the quality for which he is paying.

Although all meat slaughtered under government supervision has been stamped as such, the new graded carcasses are being stamped in such a manner that the government stamp will appear on each cut made from the carcass, thus insuring protection to the customer who demands U. S. graded beef.

LEGISLATURE TO CEASE BUSINESS ABOUT JULY 1ST

Final Adjournment Will Be July 10 or 15, Guessers at Madison Believe

Madison—(P)—Guessers on adjournment of the legislature are becoming more frequent in the state capital and the prevalent forecast appears to be July 1; that is practical adjournment on that date, with final adjournment about July 10 to 15.

This week will be the last, virtually, for committee hearings on the approximately 1,400 bills that have been presented. With no afternoon work in committee, the legislators will be free to hold two sessions a day in both houses, and scores of bills may be disposed of at each session.

As the session draws to a close, also, consideration of the measures is speeded up, most of the major problems having had record votes by that time, and the few members remaining in Madison being anxious to return to their homes.

Earlier guesses as to the date of adjournment placed it as late as September 1, but as the session has worn along, consideration of the bills has been brought to a point where earlier dates are estimated, until now the latest conjecture is July 15.

Veteran legislators say, however, that the calendars now contain bills are few of the earlier bills that have been numbered above 600 that there are few of the earlier bills that have not been taken up, and that the remaining one or two hundred bills can be easily disposed of in three or four weeks of morning and afternoon sessions.

This week brings first consideration of a great number of the departmental appropriation bills by the assembly. The finance committee, the only ones that will hold sessions after this week, will complete work on the major appropriation bills soon, leaving the bodies to pass the appropriations, the committee to pass the bills that remain, and adjourn. After the real adjournment, a number of the members of each house must remain and meet regularly, for ten days, the length of time allowed the governor to sign or veto bills that have been rushed through during the last few days. These sessions will be brief and of little interest, unless some major bill happens to be among the last set and is vetoed by the governor. This might mean a call to the house in either body, so that the members might be brought back to vote of the veto.

SWIMMING POOL MAY BE OPENED WITHIN ONE WEEK

Repairs on the municipal swimming pool are advancing rapidly and it is expected it will be ready for use within the next week. The board walk around the pool has been completed and covered with rubberoid to prevent slipping, old lockers were replaced along the east side of the pool and new lockers are being built along the south side. A picket fence will be built along the north side of the pool. The walk on the east side of the pool has been extended about eight feet and now is 12 feet wide, and the walk at the south end was extended about 10 feet, making it 20 feet wide. The old diving stand and diving board were torn down and new ones will be constructed. The work is being done by the street department under the supervision of R. E. Jankowich, street commissioner, and the public buildings and grounds committee.

AMERICA'S MERCHANT MARINE

The committee on commerce of the United States senate, of which Senator Jones of Washington is chairman, has been for many months studying the problems connected with the American merchant marine. The committee has favorably reported a bill (S. 5792) for the development of a permanent merchant marine and has submitted a report outlining its investigation and conclusions and presenting its arguments in support of the bill. It calls attention to the fact that there are two schools of thought in this country, one favoring private ownership, which can only be realized through subsidies, and the other public ownership and control. It is its judgment that both schools are united on the prime fact that we should have a permanent merchant marine adequate for all present and future needs, and it expresses the hope that they will be willing "to subvert individual preference for practical accomplishment."

The committee has decided after prolonged investigation that congress will not provide the necessary aid to induce private capital and enterprise to go into the shipping business and give us the merchant marine we should have. It concludes, therefore, that the only feasible way to obtain a merchant marine is directly through the government, and the bill it has approved is of this character. It declares that the policy as expressed in the merchant marine act of 1920 is hereby confirmed, "and the purpose of the United States to maintain permanently a merchant marine adequate for the proper growth of the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States and for the national defense is hereby reaffirmed." It further provides for replacement and additions to the fleet, both cargo and passenger, by government construction and operation.

Going back to the question of the feasibility of an American merchant marine, the committee directs attention to the dilemma in which the country found itself when it declared war on Germany. There was entire lack of a merchant marine. Had it not been for the fact that a large amount of German tonnage was in our ports at the time war was declared, all of which was seized, we would have been in a grave predicament. The Leviathan alone carried 275,000 of our boys across the sea. The moment war was declared the cry went out for ships, and more ships. Everything depended upon our ability to transport troops, munitions and supplies overseas. Without the shipping we could do nothing. We spent three billion dollars in a frantic and hectic ship-building orgy. Practically all of this shipping was of such a character that it is now obsolete and of little or no value. The ships were built with borrowed money. The American people will have to repay their cost of three billion dollars, together with interest at the rate of one hundred twenty million dollars annually. It is figured that it will cost the American people in interest alone an average of forty million dollars a year for fifty years, to say nothing of the principal, and when it is all paid we shall have absolutely nothing to show for it, excepting of course the fact that it did help us to win the war. It is a sad fact that it is an expensive way to get an emergency. We could operate a government-owned merchant marine with a deficit of but a small part of the money squandered on the war fleet, and we could well afford it.

The value of the merchant marine does not lie in the fact that it is a means for naval and military purposes, but in its independence of foreign control. A government-owned merchant marine would tend to discourage the use of foreign shipping and its control by the United States in case of emergency. It would also stimulate more and more Americans to become seafarers, and should stimulate a body of adventurous Americans to again become seafarers. If our manufacturers, producers and railroad men are assured of the permanency of American steamship service in foreign trade they will be encouraged to use it more and more, with the result that we shall more rapidly expand our foreign trade and attain a maritime rank commensurate with our rank as a world power. It will protect agriculture in the exportation of its surplus production to foreign destinations at reasonable freight rates. It will definitely commit the government to the building up and prosperous maintenance of a great new industry, useful in peace and indispensable in war. It will help make the United States strong on the seas, where too long it has been weak. It will stimulate a more conscious nationalism and cannot fail to increase American prestige throughout the world.

These are the arguments in favor of a government-owned merchant marine. We believe experience conclusively proves that we can have a merchant marine in no other way. It is solely a question of what it is worth to the American people to be a moral, physical and commercial force on the high seas. In our opinion it is more than worth the deficit that will be annually incurred by government ownership and operation. In fact, we think it is indispensable to our mercantile and industrial advancement and it is a small price to pay for the added national protection.

ILLINOIS COMPROMISES WITH SMALL

One of the greatest political scandals in the history of Illinois was started some six years ago when it was charged that Governor Len Small, in conjunction with two other alleged conspirators, had withheld while state treasurer upwards of one million dollars of interest on state funds. A fictitious bank known as the Grant Park bank was set up by Small's co-defendants; the Curtis brothers, as a blind through which to carry on the alleged conspiracy. Competent auditing of the treasurer's books and records proved, beyond a doubt that a sum of money in the neighborhood of a million dollars, which rightfully belonged to the state, had been diverted to private use. Governor Small and his associates were first indicted on criminal charges but escaped conviction. A civil suit was then instituted to compel an accounting and this case has been in the courts for several years.

A settlement has just been made, under which Small is to pay back to the state $650,000 of the amount originally claimed against him and the Curtis brothers. The agreement under which the case is dismissed specifically states that Small made no profit on loans of public funds, and it further contains the remarkable statement that the payment of $650,000 by Small is solely for interest received by other defendants, one of whom is now dead. The moral opprobrium for what has been commonly regarded as embezzlement of public moneys is thereby passed from the shoulders of the living to the grave of the dead.

It is charged by Small's opponents that the court settlement is a deliberate whitewash of the governor. The charge is given color by the fact that under his powerful influence the legislature had already passed what was known as Small's quo warranto bill giving him immunity from ouster proceedings, which he himself had recently signed and which is due to go into effect July 1st. In other words, the Small machine has been able to control not only public sentiment for its continuance in office, but the agencies of government for its protection. It is difficult to understand why there is no legal liability on the part of the governor to make restitution of funds belonging to the state and why, if there was no dishonest conspiracy between him and the Curtis brothers, there should be even a moral obligation to make restitution. We know of no men in or out of public life who would go down into their own pockets to the amount of $650,000 to discharge a liability of friends, one of whom was dead and whose estate was bankrupt. There must have been a motive more compelling than friendship or even political appreciation.

The whole incident from beginning to end is a disgraceful chapter in the government of Illinois, and we cannot see that it has been improved by the compromise agreement, which, it is quite evident, is political. Doubtless, however, the people of Illinois are well satisfied and they can look upon their leader as a martyr who has made a great personal sacrifice for others. A people who persist in electing a man of this type as governor will be ready to construe anything in his favor. Although an explanation is plainly due, Illinois will not ask for it.

IMMUNITY SEEMS TOO CHEAP

When a desirable thing becomes too cheap nobody wants it.

A reader sends some tracts about the alleged dangers of vaccination and writes: "I am much disturbed by these articles. We had all our children given serum several weeks ago. I think the reader means toxin-antitoxin, to make the children immune against diphtheria. The term 'serum' as popularly used means anything or nothing definite. One of the articles is from the pen of a freak healer who presents himself to the trade—the public, as a pathologist. The other article is not accredited to any author but is sponsored by the American Medical Liberty League, incorporated. Why the incorporated?

Whatever may have been the custom in the past, I simply cannot take a healer seriously who calls himself an allopathist or a nativist of any kind. When a healer does so it betrays a sad defect in his education, to my mind. Also it signifies, to my mind, that he has an axe to grind; he wishes to appeal to folk who imagine that some one out, school, ism or pathy is correct or true and all else is false or wrong.

The so-called "medical liberty" corporation is not medical at all, but is rather a league of cultists, pathists, mail order tradesmen, quacks and nostrum makers, interests that demand, not liberty, but license, special privilege, impunity from the law or exceptional relaxation of the rigor of the law to favor their extraordinary methods. These gentry just naturally oppose whatever the "allopaths"—as they like to call regular physicians—advocate or advise, and for two reasons. First, because if the people follow the advice of the regular physicians, there ain't gonna be no business for the quacks. Second, the regular physicians have exposed many of the tricks of these liberty loving concerns and aided law officers in convicting many of them in court.

There is a definite risk involved in every vaccination. I do not know how small the risk may be, in proportion with the number of vaccinations done annually, but certainly there is a small chance that the vaccinated individual may suffer serious or even fatal septicemia from the vaccination wound. Nevertheless, I prefer that my children undergo that risk, rather than take a chance of small pox. And I know perfectly well that even after successful vaccination an individual may still catch smallpox, though this chance, too, is too small to mention in my opinion. Although I believe in vaccination, I do not believe the state or community has the right to enforce vaccination on anybody who does not desire it, and I would brand all ordinances, rules or laws that do so in effect as abuses of government which ought to be resisted and opposed by all good citizens. Even the rule excluding an unvaccinated child from school is a monstrous mistake. I believe, in my opinion, as effective as we believe it is, then those of us whose children are vaccinated have nothing to fear from the unvaccinated child in school.

In the city of Auburn, N. Y., population over thirty-five thousand the "normal" death rate from diphtheria from 1915 to 1923 was nine persons each year. Then the physicians of the city began a systematic immunization of the school children. In the last three years diphtheria has found no victim in Auburn, although seven mild cases have occurred, in children not yet immunized. This Auburn demonstration is the best answer to any and all objections, criticisms or misrepresentations offered by the "liberty" corporation or others who harbor obsessions about serums and vaccines.

Meade, second vice president; Meritt Earl, third vice president; Alpha Helm, fourth vice president; Alvina Frush, secretary; Mary Wood, treasurer.

HOW WE LOVE OUR BEAUTY OPPORTUNITIES

Editor of The Post-Crescent—At the corner of Fairview and West Prospect streets there is a shallow ravine. Along its eastern edge a springing of tin cans has made its appearance. Within a few days the city has mercifully overlaid these cans with a layer of dirt. Whether this marks the beginning of an effort to keep this ravine clean and free from refuse is not known to the writer, but if it follows the custom hitherto prevailing of a new sprinkling of cans will soon appear. When these have been followed by a few bedsprings and Ford parts, and then some old baby-carbs, barb-wire, stove pipes, iron shavings, and building paper, garnished with a plentiful supply of coal ashes, the process will have begun, all too familiar in this city, of destroying a potential beauty spot by the ugliest device known to civilized man.

This particular corner is just opposite Pierce's Park, and it would be especially unfortunate that the city should keep one eye on the park, and spend a substantial sum to improve an already beautiful spot, while it closes the other eye, so to speak, to deliberate delinquency by a method as effective as a disgrace to our city, and a reflection on our good taste.

It is not altogether a question of the loss by filling in a pretty spot which might be landscaped and made an effective and natural addition to the park across the way. A very serious matter is the interminable length of time which must elapse before the city will be able to reach the street level, and a covering of earth can be made to hide the disgrace. We have grown so accustomed to our practice in the matter of ravines that once we have begun to use one of them as a public dump we close our eyes to the time which elapses before the process is ended. We know that it will end when the refuse reaches the level, and forget how many years must go by. The once beautiful ravine at the corner of Washington and Catherine streets, and to my knowledge, over thirty years has been in filling, and the indications are that at the present rate of progress another ten years must go by before the daily procession of wheel-barrows and ash carts is forced to seek some other place to defile.

Is it not astonishing that public opinion has tolerated this practice in such a neighborhood? Within two or three blocks of this dump there must be residences aggregating over half a million dollars in value, which show how choice a residence section it is considered. It is true that there is not much to offend the sense of smell at this spot. The sign which some ingenious City official has posted up, reading "Dump no Garbisch, although somewhat cryptic, has for the most part been effective in preventing the deposit of late casts or recent salad remnants, but there is scarcely any thing else that Appleton is through with which cannot be found there.

A study of the successive layers deposited during a third of a century would disclose many interesting facts regarding the tastes and habits of our citizens. One could discover when Campbell's soups lost flavor, and when Heinz began to be popular, when spiral springs gave place to wicker, when gas came in and oil stoves lost interest the housewife. The modern flapper might be interested in the once indispensable corset, and the boot-leger might find, far down at the bottom, some bottles which had once contained real beer or whiskey, manufactured before the word synthetics was understood, before chemistry, ingenuity, cupidity and dishonesty combined to menace the friends of personal liberty.

But one may well ask "what price archaeology?" If these lessons have been learned at the cost of an eyesore for forty years duration, is it not curious that the citizens of Appleton would tolerate for a week the practice of dumping this stuff on an empty lot above ground, but the custom has been permitted in depressions which had possibilities of beauty exceeding most places. I can only look on the other side of Washington street, at the ravine back of George Schmidt's home, where good taste and a little expense are fast transforming part of this ravine into a sunken garden of great charm, which will be as good a place as any in the city before the ash and plastering paper and chicken wire from the other side of the street have ceased to blow and roll about.

This is an overly-long story, Mr. Editor, about a well-known and acknowledged defect, but it is written with the forlorn hope that it may be of some use to the city. The City of Madison or Wausau would have taken the "big ravine," and have made a winding road from the Fox River Paper Company's office, through Jones' park, under College Avenue, up to the level at Atlantic or Winnebago street; and would have made the sides of the ravine in a natural park, with native flowering shrubs, wild crab and thorn, sumac and dogwood; a bird retreat, a delight to the eye and ear, a place unique and beautiful. There would have been room for a few tennis courts, benches and swings, some gardens for children, and an amphitheatre for our door plays and concerts, and a breathing place in the heart of the city. Its possibilities are indicated by the efforts of a public spirited corporation, the Fox River Paper Company, and the benefactions of a private citizen, Mr. Jones. What the City has done may be seen by a glance at the miserable hole north of College Avenue. The cost to the City of the improvement suggested would have been very small, and would have been returned to the City many times over in increased taxes from increased value of the land to the neighborhood.

It is too late to do this, although part of the "big ravine" might be reclaimed, and there are a few other places in many other prosperous cities in this prosperous country; but something unique in the matter of drives, parks, open spaces, glimpses of river and ravine, would give us distinction which we would prize if we had it. And we had rare possibilities which we have all but lost. May we not recover some of them, and cease to make a bad matter worse in the future?

J. S. REEVE.

The Question Box

Q. How far does a troop of cavalry horses travel a day? E. E.

A. The War department says that from 25 to 30 miles is a good average for a troop. A forced march will be longer, depending upon the outfit and the road conditions.

Q. Why did France occupy the Ruhr? D. M.

A. It was the result of Germany's failure to deliver to France telegraph poles to the number of 100,000 and of 2,500,000 tons of coal, being about 12 per cent of the total amount due for 1922. The Reparations commission on January 9, 1923, formally declared Germany to be in wilful default. This furnished a technical ground for action, and on January 10, France and Belgium, acting jointly, notified the German Government that they were about to dispatch a mission of control to the Ruhr to take all necessary measures for a payment of reparations.

Q. What gold pieces have been coined lately? A. O. F.

A. For the past few years the United States government has coined only two gold pieces, double eagles or $20 gold pieces and quarter eagles or $2.50 gold pieces.

Q. How far up the rivers can the tide be felt—rivers such as the Mississippi, Delaware, and Hudson? E. F. H.

A. The ocean tide may be felt in the Mississippi river as far up as Red River landing, 307 miles above the mouth; in the Delaware river as far up as Trenton, New Jersey, 131.5 miles above the mouth; in the Hudson as far up as Troy Dam, 153 miles above the mouth.

Q. What is the meaning of the word Barmatz? H. S. S.

A. It is from the Hebrew "Barach" meaning blessing. It occurs in Second Chronicles 22:26 and in first Chronicles 12:3.

CITIES SHOULD HELP FARMERS ORGANIZE RURAL FIRE FORCES

By Don E. Mowry
Secretary, the American Community Advertising Association

Cities are protecting themselves against fire losses, the farmer being ten miles from a city is almost helpless in the face of a conflagration.

They thought about this problem in Albion, Mich., and through the rural relations committee of the Chamber of Commerce worked out the plan.

The farmers in the vicinity of Albion subscribed $25 per farm for protection. They bought a complete truck carrying both chemical and water pump. The truck cost $5,000. The farmers are now organized and have the Albion Rural Fire Truck Association. Farms within a radius of already been saved.

10 miles of Albion have protection. The outfit is operated from the city by members of the local fire department. Call up on the telephone and the truck starts right out to the fire.

"We do not feel as helpless when we think of possible fires any longer. We know we can call up and will get the needed assistance," one farmer said the other day.

Here's a chance for many other cities to help their rural neighbors. This project has been one of the greatest good will builders for this Michigan city. The rural neighbor looks to the city for leadership all over the country. Albion's record makes this positive fact and fact. Three times the value of the equipment has already been saved.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BILLY WELLS, NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SHELTON, employees of the big T. Q. CURTIS department store, are taken into their employer's home as his wards for their further education, which each has expressed. Billy, who wants to become a concert violinist, is the only one of the three that is serious, the others having lied to enjoy T. Q.'s generosity. Billy is infatuated with DAL ROMANINE, nephew of MRS. MEADOWS, the hired business of the Curtis home, but she is deeply troubled when she suspects that he is "playing" both her and Winnie Shelton.

Billy tenderly remembers CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, who has disinherited himself and is living in the Wells home in a poor part of town, working in the Truman factory by day and writing music at night.

The girls, unknown to T. Q., learn that he intends to adopt one of them when the year is up and to gain his affections, a series of intrigues, instigated by Nyda and Winnie and Curiously involving Mrs. Meadows, Dal Romanine, and EDDIE BANNING, Nyda's chauffeur-sweetheart, of department store days, turn the house into a hub of plotting and scheming.

Billy is disgusted with the whole thing and loses interest in her violin. Because she has a nervous breakdown, she leaves town for a month and believes in this time she has reunited Romanine from her heart. Upon her return, however, she finds she is as much under his spell as ever. Thinking he would please Nyda, who has lied about her ambition to become a kindergarten teacher, T. Q. equips a have travel to broaden your minds and your viewpoints. I know," he grinned wryly, "that that is an old-fashioned reason for going to Europe, but I have a feeling that if you girls can get away from Colfax, see the world that lies outside, learn other valuations than those which were given you, first by poverty and then by sudden luxury, you will be better able to cope with life after this year is up."

And so they went to Europe. It was a dazzling experience for all of them, but of the three Billy was the only one who had had a previous background of reading and education which fitted her to appreciate it.

The three girls were drawn into a sort of armed-truce intimacy during the trip, for T. Q. and Mrs. Meadows discouraged their becoming too friendly with other tourists. Their very loneliness in strange countries brought them together as nothing else could have done. T. Q., a little lost and ill at ease away from the store, was wistful and gentle. Billy sometimes reproached herself bitterly for not having told him when she had accidentally learned his secret—that he intended to adopt one of the three girls when the year of probation was up. But it was too late now to tell him.

There were half a dozen adventures during the summer which threatened melodramatic consequences. On the boat going over, for instance, Billy saw Winnie in the arms of a man who was later exposed as a card sharp. Nyda conducted a hectic affair with a charming, desolate, young-old Frenchman, who trailed the party hopefully from Paris to Vienna, and from Vienna to Naples, but there he suddenly switched his amorous attentions to a fat, middle-aged American widow who was reputed to be worth many millions.

Billy herself did not escape the threat of romantic complications, for an apple-cheeked young Englishman pursued her, in a most gentlemanly but determined fashion, over half of Europe, finally abandoning romance for a more concrete excitement in Monte Carlo. Three days after the Curtis party left Monte Carlo Billy read in a London paper an announcement of his engagement to Lady Angela Struthers, a tall, honest-eyed, plain girl who had appeared not at all choiced in the young Englishman's budding romance with the blue-eyed little American flapper when she had seen the two together in Paris.

During the course of the European tour, which extended over a period of four months, the millionaire departed from the trip took a naive pleasure in presenting his three lovely wards with bits of not too expensive but exquisite jewelry. In Paris he surprised them with platinum dinner rings, set with their favorite stones; a ruby for Nyda, an emerald for Winnie and a sapphire for Billy. The stones were neither rare nor flawless, but the combined cost ran into thousands of dollars which T. Q. had amassed with so much shrewdness and hard work. In Rome he added short strands of small but well-matched pearls. In Berlin he allowed them to choose their beautiful wrist watches, studded with pin point diamonds and chips of emeralds and sapphires. His pleasure in giving the things almost exceeded the rapture with which the girls received them.

And all during those enchanted four months the struggle between Nyda and Winnie, each to make herself more indispensable than the other to T. Q.'s happiness, did not abate. The odds from the first had been in Winnie's favor, for it was natural for her to cuddle and purr and cajole, and T. Q. was human enough to be flattered and touched by her unceasing attentions.

Billy, watching the tall, splendid, graceful Nyda trying the same tactics, was ironically amused and a little sad, for the role set so poorly on her shoulders. But it was not without a feeling of triumph that Billy realized that it was she who had become his real friend. It was Billy whom he chose as his companion for walks and tours of cathedrals and art galleries, for she was the only one of the three not too indolent or ignorant to take a genuine interest in sight-seeing. And she grew to love him during those hours of comradeship, not sentimentally or with much emotion, but to love him as if indeed he were a friend.

There were bitter quarrels between the three girls, of course, vulgar quarrels during which they hurled recriminations and accusations, for they could never quite forget that they were contestants for a tremendous prize. But in the main they were too busy and too excited by their new experience to spend a great deal of time in quarreling, and no matter how hard they worked to gain marks of his special preference, not one of them had been able to break down T. Q.'s rigid impartiality.

The name of Dal Romanine was never mentioned between them, nor by T. Q. Curtis, but Mrs. Meadows spoke of him frequently to Billy, and the girl had the unreasoning conviction that she did not allow the other two girls to forget him either. Billy had agreed with Dal, on parting from him in Colfax that it would be better if they did not try to write frequently.

More heartaches and misunderstandings came out of a long-distance correspondence than could ever be explained away," he had told her practically, while his eyes and voice caressed her. "But—I will not let you forget me."

And he had kept his word. There were roses and a cablegram from him awaiting her in London; in Paris she received a long, whimsical letter, sparingly but thrillingly studded with terms of endearment. But her joy in it was almost destroyed when she saw an equally bulky envelope, with Winnie's name inscribed on it, in those tiny, printed characters.

In Rome, a Hindu, fearfully and wonderfully garbed in his native dress, stopped her outside the Vatican one day and introduced himself as an intimate friend of Dal Romanine, with the added explanation that Romanine had instructed him to see her and give her a note from him. The two had tea together. Billy self-consciously aware of the intense interest of a number of American tourists, but enthralled with the tales which the high-caste East Indian told her of Romanine's life in India. The note was a short poem, written in Dal's cursive, which, in a language which was utterly foreign to the puzzled girl. The Hindu translated it for her, smiling inscrutably into her eyes as he spoke the tender words of love which Dal had dedicated to her.

Billy was reading a long, affectionate letter from Constance Bradley one morning while the party sat at breakfast together on a hotel veranda in Florence.

"You really must hurry home, Billy dear. Old Colfax is positively seething with excitement. There is a most marvelous soothsayer or fortune teller or seer or clairvoyant—whatever you want to call him—who actually seems to 'see all, know all.' Is the vaudeville fortune teller always claim. He is a thrillingly handsome and mysterious East Indian—by the way, had you noticed that Dal Romanine looks like a Hindu himself?—and he reads crystals with the most amazing accuracy. I'm quite frightened of him, but I keep going back—as everyone in our crowd does. The man must be making a fortune, for he is distinctly the vogue.

Everyone goes to him—even the most conservative old mossbacks in town. Hurry on home and have your fortune told."

Billy stared at the letter incredulously. This from Constance! Constance who was so wise and cool and remote! Her heart was heating so heavily with a strange, terrifying excitement that it was almost a minute after he had spoken she realized what T. Q. Curtis had been saying:

"Well, pack your duds, girls. I've got a cablegram from home. The store needs me. When can we be ready to sail, do you think, Mrs. Meadows?"

Billy learns that Clay Curtis is progressing wonderfully with his music, while she is standing still. In the next chapter she calls on the strange fortune teller.

My answers and reasons follow: No. 9—South pass. West pass; North should bid one Spade.

No. 10—With a side Ace and five Spades headed by Ace-King, has ample strength to bid a Spade even after a pass by his partner.

No. 11—South one Diamond, West pass; North should bid one Spade. It is possible that the combined hands may produce exactly ten tricks in either Spades or Diamonds; in which case there would be a game at Spades and not at Diamonds. After showing the Spades, if East bid and South pass, North should raise South's Diamonds.

BUILD DRIVEWAYS AT PIERCE PARK WITH FINE STONE

Walks Will Be Completed in
About 10 Days, Contractors
Report

Crushed and screened stones are being hauled from the Quarry Products company at Menasha to Pierce park this week to complete the walks and driveways. A steam roller is being used to pack the roads before a foundation of six inches of rock is placed. The top is formed of screened stone and the walks also are being finished with the same material. It is hoped to have the roads and walks completed within a week or 10 days.

The two lagoons in the ravine have been completed, were filled with water Monday. The first or upper lagoon is approximately 125 feet long and 20 feet wide and will be from two to four feet deep. The second lagoon is about 150 feet long and from 20 to 35 feet wide. They are connected by a small waterfall.

The land surrounding the lagoons has been seeded and shrubbery has been planted. Although the place looks rather rough now, in a year or two it will take on a finished appearance. The full beauty of this spot will not be realized for some years, however, according to the landscape engineer of the Chicago Landscape company, which is in charge of the improvement.

A roadway and several footpaths will lead about the lagoons and give access to them from all sides of the park. It also will be possible to get a view of the lagoons from Prospect ave.

About 3,000 shrubs have been set out in the park and one crew of men is at work this week cutting the grass and cleaning the grounds.

The two rest rooms, one at each end of the park, are completed, and plumbing fixtures are being installed this week. They will be ready for use within a week.

The entire park probably will be completed in about three weeks.

CLARA BOW "QUEEN OF LEATHER PUSHERS"

Clara Bow was recently notified by a square-jawed ambassador representing the professional boxing fraternity of Los Angeles and Hollywood that she had been elected "Queen of the Leather Pushers," a fraternity made up of the young men who furnish the main events and preliminaries in the southern California fight stadiums.

The little Paramount star became acquainted with several of the boys who deal in lefts and rights during the filming of her picture, "Rough House Rosie" in which Reed Howes, her leading man, boxes Charles Sullivan who proposed Miss Bow as the fighters' mascot at a meeting of the pugilistic clan. The picture reaches Fischer's Appleton Theatre tomorrow.

Arthur Housman, Doris Hill and Douglas Gilmore are co-featured with Howes.

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE NOT ALWAYS GOOD FOR GANDER

There's an old saying among married folks that "what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," meaning that if hubby strays from the heartside and hunts new pleasures and diversion, the best way for the wife to meet it is match his stuff. This has been tried many times in married life and if the testimony of all wives and husbands who experimented could be tabulated a would reveal that the theory is not sound. However, without such statistics at hand, the husbands and wives of this town are being shown the dangers and folly of the sophistic old adage in an interesting dramatic screen story at the New Edison today and Wednesday, called "Stolen Pleasures."

Much of the story revolves around the serious circumstantial predicament a pair of wives find themselves in when they attempt to bring a couple of husbands, who they think are straying, back to the home pasture by "stepping out" a little themselves. Dorothy Devier and Helen Chadwick play the roles of the wives who attempt to taste of the "stolen sweets."

opening session of the 30th Skat Congress.

A special program for visiting women will be held Sunday terminating with a prize contest Sunday at which time three card games will be played—skat, bridge and five hundred.

The game of Skat, originated at Altonburg, Germany in 1821 and its play was stimulated by the formation of the German Skat League. Here the enthusiasts erected a "Skat fountain" in commemoration of the originators of the game.

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. PANNECK, D. C.
Your Chiropractor of Course

Question—"I am a woman of thirty-nine and need advice. Am not at all strong, hardly able to do my housework, no appetite, rest poorly at night, have headaches and my back aches across the hips. Will Adjustments be alright considering my weakness?"

Answer—"With such symptoms as you have named, why continue to neglect your health? Reliable, trustworthy advice resulting from thorough training and experience in the Drugless Science of Chiropractic is at your service to solve your health problems, thus insuring you both health and happiness. Spinal Adjustments offer you a systematic, practical, mechanical and exact method of restoring you to health. There is nothing about your case, as you have presented it, that should make you feel that hope is gone. We advise an immediate spinal examination to reveal what is causing your extreme weakness."

Question—"What is that instrument you are using in your practice, which people say is so wonderful?"

Answer—"It's a newly invented instrument which enables me to locate nerves that are under pressure and obtain the degree of pressure positively and accurately. Until the production of this instrument we were compelled to depend upon our sense of touch in locating impinged nerves. The best at times would fail to locate the proper nerve. This instrument enables me to be certain in my work. It proves that nerves can be impinged. It proves the theory of Chiropractic."

CITY HUNTING FOR LOCATION OF SEWER ON E. LINCOLN-ST

Miniature Geyser Springs from Ground Following Heavy Rainstorms

The street department crew started digging this week in an attempt to locate trouble in a sewer on E. Lincoln-st just off S. Oneida-st. Last week after the heavy rainstorm a miniature geyser sprang from the ground on the south side of Lincoln-st. The water spouted five or six feet in the air and washed down Lincoln-st to Oneida-st, clogging sewers and drains at the foot of the hill.

Plans at the city hall indicate that a sewer was supposed to be built on Lincoln-st from the top of the hill to a drain at the bottom, about a year ago, according to H. F. Hackworthy, street commissioner. This sewer was to take the place of a then ancient drainage system which was located just south of the street and which had formerly drained that street. At the point where the geyser appeared after the storm there once was a man-hole leading into the first sewer. This had crumbled and decayed, however, and it is thought that the old sewer was blocked and the flood water found an exit through the ground where the man-hole had once been.

When the flood was reported to the street department several men were sent out and tried to locate the sewer which was supposed to have been built 35 years ago but they could not find it. One man went into the man-hole where the sewer was supposed to empty into a main line and he found the lead-in pipe of the 35 year old sewer was dry but that another lead-in sewer from a still older sewer was carrying a heavy load of water. When the "plug locator" was shoved into the sewer it only went a short distance before it struck the end. It was found there were only two lengths of sewer pipe and the end had been blocked with planks.

Mr. Hackworthy thinks either the contractor who built the sewer had decided to "take a chance" and allow the old sewer line to remain and take the money for the new one without building it or the city council changed its mind about the new sewer at the last minute and decided not to install it.

When the "plug locator" was pushed up the old sewer line it went in easily for approximately 150 feet before stopping. It is thought that the old sewer is plugged at this point. Several men are digging down through the place where the old man-hole once existed and it is expected that they will locate the trouble. The sewer is almost 20 feet below the ground.

Janesville Demonstrates Municipal Golf Can Be Made To Be Self-Sustaining In Small City

SCENES ON JANESVILLE'S MUNICIPAL GOLF COURSE

BY FRANK SINCLAIR
JANESVILLE—Janesville, a city of 22,000, has demonstrated that public golf is capable of paying for itself in a town of its size.

The Bower city municipal links have just opened for the 1927 season with prospects of breaking the attendance record. Last season, there were 15,000 rounds played over the course, making a grand total of 41,539 rounds in the two and a half years of its existence of the course. Factory, office, shop and farm workers, housewives and other women make constant use of the nine-hole course. Except for $200 that was donated the first year, the maintenance of the course has been from fees of 15 cents for six holes and 10 cents for each additional round it played the same day, and later when the course was enlarged to nine holes with fees of 25 cents for the first round and 15 cents for additional rounds.

The course in its original form was constructed under the direction of the Janesville Municipal Golf club, the work being supervised by Frank E. Barnes, wealthy tobacco man. Two weeks after work was started in 1924, play was permitted. The "Municipal" club held forth each year until the close of last season, when the city government found itself in a position to assume charge starting with the 1927 season. All costs under the municipal club direction were paid for out of fees, including considerable equipment, such as mowers and a tractor, and a profit of $300 realized.

While the course started as a six-hole layout, the plan was to enlarge to nine holes. That was realized last July when the city street department completed the nine holes. The total cost of the course to date, including a $4,000 clubhouse, has been under $10,000. One of the projects for the future will be the installation of a watering system, which it has been estimated will be around $2,000.

Outside of these costs, it has been demonstrated that fees from golfers will pay for the upkeep of the course, which includes a custodian, an assistant, a tractor driver and a laborer.

Ground for the course was available from the start in a stretch of 123 acres owned by the city for park purposes. Nothing had been done with this park land until the golf idea was "brought" and it is generally conceded that it was the golf course that started work on development of the park itself.

Like any public movement, the starting of the Janesville municipal course was not easy. There were those that said it was a good idea, but—There were those that were for it, but their support was only moral. There were those who laughed and said, "It can't be done." And there were those who said, "That's fine, let's go."

Before a campaign was started in Janesville for municipal golf, information was procured from many cities of about the size of Janesville giving their experiences with municipal golf. "Everywhere that public golf had been tried, it was found to be succeeding and growing. And everywhere advantages of public golf to a town were given, such as drawing and diverting tourists, advertising the city, providing clean, whole-

Make your own test and see how CHRYSLER "60" differs from any other six of its price

Get behind the wheel—and Chrysler "60" will give you 60 miles and more an hour as long as you care to have it with an ease and lack of effort that can only be described as typically Chrysler.

At high speed, step on the brake—the same simple, safe and sure hydraulic four-wheel brake as on the higher-priced Chrysler "70" or Imperial "80"—and the "60" will gently glide to rest or give you a split-second full-stop for the emergency.

Test Chrysler "60" any way you will. For ease of performance and riding, ease of control and handling, there's no getting away from the fact that the six-cylinder Chrysler "60"—with seven-bearing crankshaft, invar-strut pistons, manifold heat control, impulse neutralizer, oil filter, air cleaner, full pressure lubrication, road levelizers and many other features—is obviously unapproachable value in its price class.

We invite you to drive the "60" and note its outstanding differences on the road. Experience its superiorities and never again will you be content with any car offering less in performance at such price.

Chrysler "60" prices—Touring Car $1075; Club Coupe, $1125; Coach $1145; Roadster (with rumble seat) $1175; Coupe (with rumble seat) $1245; Sedan, $1245.

TRAFFIC CENSUS DATES ANNOUNCED

First Count Will Be Made on Wednesday, June 14, Commission Reports

The first traffic census of the season will be taken in Outagamie-co at four places on Wednesday, June 14. It is reported at the office of the county some amusement for all ages and keeping the youth from spending their time in less desirable places, encouraging the love of the out-of-doors. And Janesville has found by two and a half years of its own experience that all these things have come to pass.

Golf is not necessarily a rich man's game. Sets of clubs and bags may be bought as low as $7.50. Balls of a satisfactory quality may be purchased for 50 cents. And at 10, 15 or 25 cents a round, the game is within the reach of most everybody—where the facilities are provided by a city.

highway commission. The commission was notified by the state highway commission of the dates on which it will be expected to take a census of the traffic between now and late next fall.

Other counts will be made on the following dates: Monday, July 4; Wednesday, July 13; Sunday, July 24; Wednesday, Aug. 3; Sunday, Aug. 14; Wednesday, Aug. 24; Monday, Sept. 5; Wednesday, Sept. 21.

There are four traffic census stations designated in the county. One is at the junction of State Trunk Highway 55 and 47, north of Black Creek; another is at the junction of State Trunk Highway 54 and 76, south of Shiocton; a third is on State Trunk Highway just west of Hortonville; and the last is on State Trunk Highway 55 and United States highway 41 at Little Chute. The junction of State Trunk Highway 76 and United States Trunk Highway 10 ordinarily would be chosen too, but there is a detour on the latter road now.

On the dates mentioned counts will be taken from 5 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night, or later if conditions warrant it. More counts than those designated may be made, but the commission will be expected to take a census on the dates announced

JACK LOCKWILL IN THE AIR

Then this astonished boy recognized the man as Henry Darmon, the aged inventor, to whose gratitude he owed so many surprising favors. In a moment Jack had grasped Mr. Darmon's chilled and trembling hands. "What's the trouble, sir?" he inquired, supporting the swaying man with a strong arm. "There's plenty of trouble," was the reply. "I fear I'm too old to overcome it."

"I was going to land at Rock Lake to see 'you, Jack,'" explained Mr. Darmon, "but I was taken ill in the air, and then engine trouble forced us down here."

The inventor introduced Jack to the aviator, who, he said, was Lieutenant Arthur Moore, "who had seen service in France during the war; Moore accepted Jack's hand."

"I won't be able to go up in the plane again," said Mr. Darmon. "It's too much for my nerves. I need rest." Jack offered to take him to Rocklake in his roadster, and the man accepted. "You can follow us, lieutenant, as soon as you correct your engine trouble," directed Darmon. Lieutenant Moore scowled as he watched them walking away. "Hang that meddling boy!" he growled. (To Be Continued.)

Putnam, Chippewa Falls; The Value of a Traffic Department to a Chamber of Commerce, G. C. Campbell, Oshkosh; How to Better Organize the State of Endorsement, a and Solicitation Schemes.

Mr. Corbett led a discussion on Problems of a Small Community. Other round table discussions followed each talk and appointment of committees, a business session, and election of officers, completed the 2-day session.

The president was instructed to appoint a committee of three to confer with the University of Wisconsin extension division relative to obtaining a qualified and trained representative to assist in the organization of chambers of commerce in the smaller cities of the states and to advise them.

Attendance of Wisconsin commercial secretaries at the National School for Chambers of Commerce Secretaries at Evanston next August was recommended.

Don Mowry said that the state legislature should appropriate money to advertise Wisconsin, especially to the tourist.

Perhaps the most interesting talk was given by Mr. Smith on chain stores. Mr. Corbett said the speaker discussed the origin of the stores and their growth. He said that the growth will become greater each year. Even department stores are changing to chain concerns, he said.

The advantages of the chain store are in its better merchandising methods while a disadvantage is the distance away from the cities of its main headquarters.

Some chain store managers settle in the city and become good residents and help the community. It is said that others merely locate a store and take all they can get with out spending a cent more than is necessary for the city.

COMPLETE FOUNDATION FOR NEW BAND STAND

The foundation and posts for the roof of the band pavilion in Pierce park have been completed and the roof trusses are ready to be placed in position. The posts are 10 inches square and will support the roof which is to be thatched to make it conform with the park surroundings. The sides of the pavilion will be removable so that they can be put on during winter and removed in summer. The trusses are prepared on the ground and swung in place with a derrick. The thatched roof will be placed over the trusses.

FOX BREEDERS TO HOLD 3-DAY SUMMER SCHOOL

Manitowish—(P)—A three day summer school sponsored by the Wisconsin Fox Breeders association will be held at Silver Lake June 21, 22 and 23.

Announcement of the proposed school was made by F. A. Eberlein, secretary and treasurer of the association. Last year 250 persons attended a similar meeting at the lake. All persons interested in raising silver foxes, whether from this state or adjoining states, are invited to attend the sessions.

Although the complete program for the affair has not been completed, it is planned to make it an educational period and of special interest to breeders. No tuition fee will be assessed. The date of the state meeting follows the national gathering at Milwaukee which is scheduled for June 16 so as to enable out-of-state fox breeders to attend.

Aside from business sessions and discussion periods, the three-day meeting will be devoted to banquets, music and dancing. The state association is affiliated with the National Fox Breeders Association. Officers of the organization include Dr. L. J. O'Reilly, Merrill, president; Herman Nehls, Manitowish, vice president, and Mr. Eberlein.

The offices of the undersigned will be closed Saturday afternoons until October first.

Do you feel like going back to bed?

AFTER YOU have dressed your children, fed them, and sent them off to school, do you feel like going back to bed? Do you shrink from your daily task of dish-washing and house-cleaning? Are you tired? Discouraged?

Many women have found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for that tired feeling. It builds up the appetite. It induces natural sleep. Read what these two women say about it.

GAINED 18 POUNDS
Cleveland, Ohio: "After having my first baby I lost weight no matter what I did. I went down to 88 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework over without one bit of trouble." Mrs. M. Riessinger, 10004 Nelson Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

NERVOUS SPELLS GONE
St. Paul, Minn.: "I used to get nervous spells that would last a couple of days and were so bad that I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight. One day a little booklet was left on my porch and I read it through. I found a case similar to mine. I bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have had fine results. Now housekeeping doesn't tire me." Mrs. Jack Lorber, 704 Dellwood Place, St. Paul, Minnesota.

A Permanent Wave

The Successful Vacation
How can one possibly enjoy summer days at home or on vacation jaunts if one's hair is unmanageable? It needn't be, if it is permanently waved, and the Circuline wave is so natural. It is almost like having curly hair, and so safe that you need have no anxiety. Why bother with a marcel in summer time?

It's Safe—It Looks Natural
Circuline treats every head of hair, according to its special needs. It is safe, entirely free from any harmful chemicals such as ammonia, lye or potash. It cannot injure the hair. One Circuline for every curl, and the result is as lovely as a natural wave. A test is made of the hair before the wave is given so that the result is sure to be right.
